LXVI. On the Photo-oxidation of Adrenaline. By T. VACEK. (With two figures)	457
LXVII. Studies on the Growth of Yeast. IV. A Nephelometric Method of Counting Yeast Suspensions. By G. L. PESKETT. (With two figures)	460
LXVIII. On the Isolation from Tissues of certain Pentose Derivatives. By L. B. WINTER	467
LXIX. The Ether-soluble Substances of Cabbage Leaf Cytoplasm. III. The Fatty Acids. By A. C. CHIBNALL and H. J. CHANNON	479
LXX. Observations on the Biochemistry of "Mutton Bird" Oil. By C. L. CARTER and J. MALCOLM	484
LXXI. The Influence of the Fatty Acids and Hydroxy-acids and their Salts on Alcoholic Fermentation by Living Yeast. Part II. Propionic, Butyric, iso -Butyric, Glycollic, Lactic, Hydroxy- iso -butyric, α - and β -Hydroxybutyric Acids and their Sodium Salts. By H. KATAGIRI. (With seven figures)	494
LXXII. Oxidations by Hydrogen Peroxide in Presence of Sulphydryl Compounds. By D. C. HARRISON	507
LXXIII. Experiments on the Formation of Succinic Acid in the Body. Part I. The Determination of Succinic Acid and its Formation in Muscle and Liver Pulp. By P. W. CLUTTERBUCK. (With two figures)	512
LXXIV. Studies of the Urea Content of Capillary and Venous Blood. By E. SVENSGAARD	522
LXXV. The Influence of Hexosediphosphoric Acid and Hexosemonophosphoric Acid upon Insulin Hypoglycaemia. By H. P. MARKS and W. T. J. MORGAN	530
LXXVI. Haemocyanin. Part IV. The Dependence of the Shape of the Oxygen Dissociation Curve on the State of Ionisation of the Protein. By E. STEDMAN and E. STEDMAN. (With three figures)	533
LXXVII. The Effect of Halogen Salts on Peptic Digestion. By W. M. CLIFFORD. (With one figure)	544
LXXVIII. Studies in Carbohydrate Metabolism. III. The Influence of Dihydroxy-acetone upon the Respiratory Metabolism and upon the Inorganic Phosphate of the Blood. By C. G. LAMBIE and F. A. REDHEAD	549
LXXIX. The Purification and Properties of Insulin. By F. DICKENS, E. C. DODDS, W. LAWSON and N. F. MACLAGAN. (With one figure)	560
LXXX. A Note on the Weight of the Rat during Gestation. By G. A. HARTWELL	572
LXXXI. A Study of the System Carbonic Acid, Carbon Dioxide and Water. I. Determination of the True Dissociation-constant of Carbonic Acid. By F. J. J. BUTTENDYK, R. BRINKMAN and H. W. MOOK. (With four figures)	576
LXXXII. On the Development of Chromogenic Properties in Cholesterol by the Action of Heat. By T. MOORE and S. G. WILLIMOTT	585
LXXXIII. The pH of the Gastro-intestinal Tract of Certain Rodents used in Feeding Experiments, and its Possible Significance in Rickets. By T. REDMAN, S. G. WILLIMOTT and F. WOKES. (With five figures)	589
LXXXIV. Studies in the Sulphur Metabolism of the Dog. V. Toxic Action of Mercapturic Acids. By E. H. CALLOW and T. S. HELE. (With three figures)	606
LXXXV. Studies in the Sulphur Metabolism of the Dog. VI. The Metabolism of the Pig and Dog compared. By H. I. COOMBS and T. S. HELE. (With two figures)	611
LXXXVI. Studies in the Sulphur Metabolism of the Dog. VII. The Effect of Fluorobenzene on Sulphur Metabolism. By H. I. COOMBS. (With two figures)	623
LXXXVII. The Reduction of Haematin and Methaemoglobin. By R. HILL and H. F. HOLDEN. (With one figure)	625
LXXXVIII. The Physiological Rôle of Vitamin B. Part III. Study of Vitamin B Deficiency in Pigeons. By S. K. KON and J. C. DRUMMOND. (With Plates III, IV and four figures)	632
LXXXIX. The Physiological Rôle of Vitamin B. Part IV. The Relation of Certain Dietary Factors in Yeast to Growth of Rats on Diets Rich in Proteins. By A. HASSAN and J. C. DRUMMOND. (With two figures)	653
XC. A Conductivity Method for the Determination of Carbon Dioxide. By L. E. BAYLISS. (With one figure)	662
XCI. The Possible Significance of Hexosephosphoric Esters in Ossification. Part VII. The Bone Phosphatase. By M. MARTLAND and R. ROBISON. (With four figures)	665
XCII. The Chemistry of Hexosediphosphoric Acid. Part I. The α - and β -Methyl-hexosediphosphoric Acids. By W. T. J. MORGAN. (With three figures)	675
XCIII. The Antiscorbutic Fraction of Lemon Juice. V. By S. S. ZILVA	689

	PAGE
XCIV. On the Composite Nature of the Water-soluble B Vitamin. By H. CHICK and M. H. ROSCOE. (With two figures)	698
XCV. The Effect of Desiccation upon the Nutritive Properties of Egg-white. By M. A. BOAS. (With Plate V and four figures)	712
XCVI. A Note on the Vitamin D Content of the Stomach Oil of the Australasian Petrel (Australata Lessona). By J. L. LEIGH-CLARE	725
XCVII. The Synthesis of the Antineuritic Factor (Torulin) by Yeast. By F. HAWKING	728
XCVIII. On Ovomuroid. By J. NEEDHAM	733
XCIX. A Quantitative Study of Succinic Acid in Muscle. II. The Metabolic Relationships of Succinic, Malic and Fumaric Acids. By D. M. NEEDHAM. (With two figures)	739
C. Quantitative Studies of the Nitroprusside Reaction in Normal Tissues and Tumours. By E. L. KENNAWAY and I. HIEGER	751
CI. Observations on the Renal Threshold for Glucose. By R. L. MACKAY. (With one figure)	760
